Why Choose Us?

- Get a Bachelor of Education degree from the University of Alberta while being part of a supportive, tight-knit community of like-minded learners
- Benefit from small class sizes and built-in supports for students
- Pursue a rewarding teaching career that improves the educational success of Aboriginal children

“ ATEP allows you not only to build relationships and friendships with your ATEP cohort, it also helps you build relationships with your professors. And they're genuine real relationships that you build. It's like a family, a family that otherwise would never have existed. In institutions like this, you need that. ”

— Loretta, ATEP Graduate —

Portage College

ATEP is an off campus community based collaborative cohort program in the Elementary Education specialization route. The partnership with Portage College and the Aboriginal Teacher Education Program allows students to achieve an Bachelor of Education Degree with out leaving a student's home community. The Fall 2018 Cohort is the third ATEP offering with Portage College.
